

ROY COLWELL KILLED

Brakeman Hit By Freight Train at D'Arcy, Sask., Was Former Kincardine Man

Roy Alexander Colwell, aged 32 years of age, of Saskatoon, was run over and instantly killed in the yards at D'Arcy, Sask., on Wednesday evening, September 14th, while the crew was dropping off a short string of cars on the elevator track at D'Arcy. He was acting as brakeman on an extra freight westbound to Kindersley. He was found by the conductor and another brakeman on the tracks.

Mr. Colwell, who was well known in Saskatoon, was born at Kincardine, and received his early education in this town. He went West with his parents in 1912. In 1917 he began work for the Canadian National Railways as a brakeman. In addition to his work with the railway company he was a salesman for the Early Motors Company. An inquest is being held at Kindersley.

Deceased was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ab. Colwell, and a nephew of Messrs. Dan McLean, lake shore north and Duncan McLean, B Line, Mrs. Colwell, the deceased's mother, being their sister. A younger brother visited here this summer.

BURY ROY COLWELL, ACCIDENT VICTIM

Young Man, Well Known In This City, Is Laid to Rest On Sunday Afternoon

The funeral of Roy A. Colwell, Sunday afternoon was one of the most widely attended in Saskatoon in recent years. The young man who was killed in a train accident at D'Arcy Wednesday night, was well and widely known in the city, and in addition to representatives of the running trades, there were members of the family, of the Early Motor Company, and many personal friends from out of town.

Wreaths and other floral tributes in profusion banked the bier of the young man and many of these were laid at the graveside by those who followed the cortege to its last resting place in Woodlawn cemetery.

Funeral services were held at McKague's undertaking parlors at 2 p.m. Sunday.

OBITUARY

MRS. DUNCAN ROWAN

The death of Mrs. Mary Rowan, aged 93 years, 1 month and 24 days, occurred at the home of her neices, Misses Christena and Mary McLennan of Chicago, on Friday, December 9th. Mrs. Rowan had been in the best of health until about 20 minutes before passing away. Deceased's maiden name was Mary McLean. She was born in St. Thomas, her parents being Duncan McLean and Janet Fisher, who came from Scotland and settled in the above place. In 1852 she married Capt. Duncan Rowan, one of the most intrepid of the great lake captains in his day. He died in 1903. Mrs. Rowan was a woman of exceptional intelligence. In her long residence in Kincardine she has won the love and esteem of all who had the pleasure of her acquaintance. In her early married life she sailed many times with her husband and her love for the water made her conversant with the operation of a boat. On one occasion during a terrible storm, the wheelsman became ill and could not perform his duties. This courageous woman took the wheel and obeying the commands of her valiant husband she piloted the boat safely into the harbor. One can hardly conceive of the daring and courage which she possessed, for she was a woman quite in manner, not given to recount stirring scenes she passed through. She had two brothers, Captains Duncan and Donald McLean, who were well known as most fearless sailors. They passed away in their thirties. She has resided on Victoria Street for many years, where she has enjoyed the friendship of every class of citizen, and it will be with the deepest regret that all will learn of her death. Perhaps her marvellous courage was fortified by her faith in God. She was a Presbyterian and a member of Knox church. When bad weather kept many more able than she from attending church, her pastor could rest assured of one deeply interested listener. Illness alone saw her pass away and no family, but for years she had the attention of her neices whose home she spent each winter and where she passed away. It was on October 8th she went to Chicago, looking forward to the home-coming in the Spring, as she always did. However, she made her last trip from Chicago, to be accompanied by her faithful neices for the purpose of seeing her to her last resting place in God's Acre, the interment taking place in Kincardine cemetery on Monday afternoon. The funeral was held from Knox Presbyterian church, conducted by Rev. T. D. McCullough. To the Misses McLennan the sympathy of the community is extended.

OBITUARY

MRS. NEIL MCLEAN

On Saturday, May 29th, that grand old pioneer mother, Mrs. Neil McLean, passed to her reward at the age of 80 years. Deceased's maiden name was Mary McKellar. She was born in Campbellton, Scotland, and came to Canada when a young girl. She married Neil McLean, who pre-deceased her some twenty-seven years ago. For about 60 years she was a resident of the B. Line and during that time her many kindnesses endeared her to all who knew her. She was warm hearted and sympathetic, always ready to perform those neighborly acts which made pioneer life endurable. She saw the forests transformed into the grand farms that adorn this section to-day. She enjoyed pioneer life as well as later days when changes of magnitude took place. Her marriage was blessed by a family of three boys and two girls, one of whom has passed away. Those surviving are Daniel, Duncan and Miss Minnie, Kincardine township; and Mrs. Albert Colwell, Saskatoon. Their many friends will sympathize with them in their severe loss. The funeral took place on Monday afternoon to Kincardine cemetery, being largely attended. The Rev. F. C. Overend conducted the funeral services, the deceased having been a lifelong member of the Presbyterian church.

OBITUARY

G. A. SWALWELL

Known and respected by Saskatoon people and those of the rural districts with whom he became acquainted during the years when his business took him into the country, the late George Alfred Swalwell, 403 Avenue H, who died Friday afternoon after a lengthy illness, was laid to rest in Woodlawn cemetery, Sunday afternoon following a service held at McKague's funeral chapel. Rev. Canon W. L. Armitage, a neighbor of the late Mr. Swalwell at Kincardine, Ont., where Mr. Swalwell was born on May 9, 1872, spoke of the esteem in which he had come to regard the deceased during the years he had known. Rev. J. W. Pratt gave a short appropriate address and Rev. T. Buntaing led in prayer. The late Mr. Swalwell leaves a widow and four children: Ruben, Sadie, Georgina and Gertrude, all of whom live in this city. He also leaves six brothers and two sisters: William, Robert, John and Thomas and Albert, of Ontario. Mrs. Culbert and Mrs. Russell, of Ontario. The pall bearers were: Clayton Colwell, John McCaig, A. M. Gibb, Fred Gordon, C. H. Banks and John Cairns. Many beautiful floral tributes testified to the esteem in which deceased was held.—Saskatoon Phoenix, Aug. 8th.
